THE COMMUNITY WHO WORKED TOGETHER TO REBUILD AFTER CYCLONE IDAI

Stephano and his wife Mary saw their house washed away by the severe flooding caused by Cyclone Idai. "On the day of the flood the rain started at 5pm, but the flood that caused houses to fall started at 11pm. By the middle of the night, all the houses had fallen. Our livestock were getting carried away with the water."

Working together, their community have now rebuilt their homes on higher ground - away from the river. The vibrance and joy of their church, showed our team that they were well on the way to recovery, with help from ShelterBox.

HOW WE HELPED

“
As for now, the sun rises, one goes to the farm, one stays at the house and the children go to school. Life is getting restored. Now we are living on higher land, we are living without worries. I feel at home, without any hesitation.
